

City of Henderson Project GREEN

DeBoer Award

- The City of Henderson's Project GREEN has received the 2005 DeBoer Award for Excellence in Planning for Outstanding Public Outreach and Journalism from the Nevada Chapter of the American Planning Association. The Nevada Chapter of the American Planning Association selects just one project each year to be honored for outstanding public outreach from among submittals entered by the nearly 400-member organization.
- The award-winning entry recognizes the initiative illustrating how a community involves the general public in a planning activity above and beyond the minimum state or local requirements.
- The award emphasizes successful efforts to engage the public in programs that raise the overall level of understanding of planning, economic development, environmental or integrated issues.
